

2015 Bennett Valley Cushing's Block Pinot noir

In 2015, we were yet again in the throes of our crush on this beautiful vineyard, with its rolling hills and delicious fruit. The Cushing's Block Pinot Noir from Barbed Oak Vineyard has emerged as one of our most prized sites. After another year working with the vineyard, we are finding that, in addition to incredible quality, there is strong consistency between vintages, giving us great hope and excitement for the future of this wine.

The hallmark of the 2015 vintage was small fruit-set. At a site like Barbed Oak Vineyard, this meant even smaller clusters than the usual, toy-sized clusters the vines produce in a normal year. This resulted in the darkest and most concentrated Pinot Noir that Donelan Family Wines has ever made. The composition of the wine takes another step forward with the introduction of 20% Swan clone Pinot Noir from the site to add to the already complex and intoxicating Calera selection. Both of these clones are known for their "hens and chicks" clusters, carrying a mix of both normal and dime-sized berries that bring many of our favorite characters to the wine—a real winemaker's dream.

Lush aromas of ripe blackberry, kirsch, and plum sauce are intoxicating, while richness and freshness on the palate make this Bennett Valley vineyard irresistible. Although heavily influenced by concentrated dark fruit, like other wines in the Donelan portfolio there is a beautiful mix of exotic spice and spring flowers, to provide beautiful contrast and added complexity to this remarkable single-vineyard.
